ITI Names New Editor for Library and Book Trade Almanac

December 6, 2017, Medford, New Jersey—Information Today, Inc. (ITI) has announced that John B. Bryans, president of JB Bryans Literary (BryLit) and formerly editor-in-chief and publisher of ITI’s Book Publishing Division, has been appointed editor of Library and Book Trade Almanac (LBTA), formerly The Bowker Annual. Bryans will report to Owen O’Donnell, Director of the ITI Reference Division.

O’Donnell said, “We are confident that John will maintain the level of excellence that Catherine Barr and Dave Bogart brought to LBTA for more than 20 years as co-editors. While the title will retain the information and statistics that have made the book an essential resource for librarians in their work, John is looking forward to introducing new voices, themes, and innovations.”

LBTA is the leading annual publication providing reports, calendars, statistics, and research at the junction of the library and book publishing industries. For more information or to participate in the 2018 63rd edition, contact the editor at jbryans@infotoday.com or (609) 922-0369, or visit the Information Today, Inc. website at www.infotoday.com.
